

WATERBURY

Drew Daniels Co. Install Rotary Granite Saw, Only One East of Rockies.

The progressiveness of the Drew Daniels granite plant here is shown by the installing of a Parker rotary granite saw, the third of its kind installed in the United States and the only rotary saw east of the Rocky mountains. A little over a year ago the W. H. B. Perry shed was burned. Mr. Perry, after a time, bought the Drew Daniels sheds and then, because of the demands of the trade, the W. L. Carr plant. This he calls shed No. 2 and here the saw is placed. The new type of granite saw, the rotary or circular saw, is equipped with two saws nine feet in diameter and is very similar in operation to the circular saws for cutting wood. All of the advantages of the gang saw are maintained, and any number of blades up to the maximum number of eight may be operated, which permits in one operation the sawing on both sides of seven slabs one foot thick and two slabs saved on one side, ready for polishing, ironing, surfacing or sand blasting, according to the finish desired.

The guaranteed capacity of the saw is four feet per hour per blade, or eight feet for two blades, and as at present equipped, the machine has a cutting capacity of over 90 superficial feet of sawed surface per hour.

The granite is fed to the saw automatically, being loaded on cars in front of the machine, which are pulled forward by a pinion device at any desired rate of speed up to 18 feet per hour. As the stone passes through the saw, the cars clear the pinion and are drawn out at the back of the machine and unloaded, the empty cars then being taken to the front of the saw and reloaded, permitting constant operation of the machine. The cutting abrasive is automatically fed to the pits, being conveyed from a supply pit directly over the saw and fed to the saw blades through pipes. After passing under the blades, the abrasive is mechanically conveyed to the base of the machine, where it is screened and returned to the supply pit. This, of course, is a very desirable feature, as it absolutely eliminates all manual labor in feeding the abrasive to the saws, as is necessary at present on other types of saws.

The saw is operated by two motors. A 50-horsepower motor drives the main shaft and cutting blades, and a 10-horsepower motor drives the hoisting mechanism, the pinion device for moving the cars and the device for handling abrasives.

To Mr. Perry should go the credit of the courage to install the most up-to-date machinery in this line, the advantage coming in the lessening of manual labor and in a quality of the work. The large number of orders in this company, pushing to the utmost sheds one and two, shows the business ability of the manager, W. H. B. Perry, and with this saw it is expected that even larger business can be handled by the Drew Daniels company.

The northern end of Main street looks very patriotic as one comes from the hill. Mr. Talbot has flying a large flag across the street and the other way with colors toward the river. R. J. Edwards has also hung a large flag, which floats between the trees. This is one which was given Mr. Edwards' son in the war in the Philippines. An artistic addition is the grouping of small flags and bunting on the cottage home of Mrs. William Strong.

KILLED BY GRAVEL CAVE-IN.

Two Men Buried in Pit Under 10 Tons Material at Claremont.

Claremont, N. H., April 16.—The cave-in of 10 tons of frozen gravel and a monster tree stump at the Chelis gravel pit, near Red Water Brook, caused the death yesterday of John Willard and badly mangled L. G. Hamel.

The men were employees of the town and were working for Road Agent E. C. Lewis, who said shortly before the accident he warned them to keep away until they brought down the overhanging dirt.

When he returned, after a brief absence, the men were buried alive and it was difficult shovelling to extricate them.

Willard had a broken leg and internal injuries and died at the hospital three hours after. Hamel suffered severe bruises and a broken leg.

Hamel is 36 and lives on Packard farm. Willard was about 50 and lived with a brother on Hanover street.

According to Fielder Jones, the only brother vs. brother pitching battle ever staged in the major league was held between Frank and John Foreman, one pitching for Cincinnati and the other for Baltimore. There is a chance that Harry and Stan Coveleski will oppose each other this season, although Harry refused to work against his younger brother last season.

Y., and will go this week to attend the conference at Newport, expecting to return here for another year's labor.

Miss MacAlarney spoke on Friday afternoon and evening, to a good company of the suffrage class, who enjoyed the talk very much. Miss MacAlarney is a good speaker, and is thoroughly conversant with the subject, and her coming here will give an added interest to the matter in the town. Saturday morning she left for St. Johnsbury, where she was to speak on Sunday. During the stay here she was entertained by the president of the local class, Mrs. P. C. Dodge.

Miss Carrie Eaton went to Rochester Saturday to attend the funeral of her cousin, Clifford Eaton, who had been ill with tubercular disease for a long time.

LIVING ON YOUR NERVE

Everybody has a store of nervous energy. When work or worry without sufficient rest exhausts this store a condition results that medical men call neurasthenia.

It is commonly met with in those who have had keen anxieties, as those who have cared for sick relatives, business men who worry over their affairs and neglect to take vacations. Women who are too active socially, anyone who has too much excitement and too little rest may show the symptoms.

The complexion becomes pale, you imagine unpleasant things, your brain insists on working when you want to go to sleep. Sometimes you are melancholy. Things that used to please you no longer do so. Constipation is usually present. If you want to yourself and your work and cannot forget your anxieties.

No doctor can cure neurasthenia. You have to do it yourself. The first thing is to write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the booklet on the home treatment of nervous disorders. If you want to start the treatment before the book comes get a fifty-cent box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from the nearest drug store and follow the directions carefully.

Ernest C. Brown has sold his place in Madison, N. H., and is with his family at the home of D. C. Rogers. Probably he will locate in this vicinity.

Mrs. C. M. Libby, Mrs. F. J. Tewksbury, Mrs. A. T. Beaton, Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Paul Gibson were in Wells River Friday to hear Mrs. Smiley of Montpelier in regard to the work to be undertaken for the Red Cross association.

It is expected that the L. A. S. of both churches, the Wednesday club, the Embroidery club and the young ladies Sunday school class of the Presbyterian church will unite in this important work.

Most of the houses in the village and the stores are displaying flags of various sizes and $35 has been subscribed for the purchase of a village flag. Sunday morning Rev. S. T. Simpson of the Presbyterian church appointed two veterans of the congregation, James Craigie and M. T. Bailey, a committee to give a flag for the church, and Sunday evening pastor and choir wore the colors in miniature.

The Easter song service in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was much enjoyed by the large number present and much appreciation of the beautiful music so well rendered by the choir was expressed. The sermon on "Sabbath Observance," by Rev. L. A. Tuck of Concord, N. H., was voted one of the best ever heard here on that subject. A large collection was taken. The pulpit was draped with "Old Glory" and there were a number of Easter lilies, making a beautiful decoration for the church.

Whoever Planned the Ball Field Did a Fine Job.

In the April Woman's Home Companion C. H. Claudy says:

"Whoever did the calculating for a baseball field made a fine job of it. It takes just so long to run from plate to first, and it takes just about that long, less a tiny fraction of a second, for the average ball to be fielded by the average shortstop and hurled down to the mitt waiting for it. The least slip, hesitation, juggle or wait, and the umpire is going to spread his hands palm down for a 'safe'."
